OM SUTHAR

SQRL.ME

SQRL empowers the physical, emotional and financial wellness of our workforce.

Om Suthar is a product designer by trade, and an amateur bowler by passion. With a unique lens into what it takes to develop a solution from end to end, Om leveraged this experience as he began working on app development in 2010. Om has stretched his former work experience beyond design skills to build a tight synergy between product design and tech teams when he launched SQRL.

Through Om's time spent in the 9-5 work force, he noticed inconsistencies between employer, employee and healthcare benefits. These inconsistencies inspired him to found SQRL, a reaction to the current state of corporate wellness programs. Om wants to disrupt the industry with SQRL because he believes that employees should have access to products and education as a part of their overall financial wellbeing strategy. SQRL is a wellness and wealth creation platform that allows employers to advocate for the physical and financial wellness for their employees. SQRL strives to equip and inspire people to take their physical and financial health into their own hands.
